4:00 pm Ten Years From Now: Some Dreams for the Future

When Bill Gates was still running Microsoft out of his parents' garage, he and his partners participated in a visioning exercise called "the big hairy audacious goal." They came up with: Computing will no longer be limited to mainframes. In our lifetime, computers will become personal. Every person will have a personal computer, and all households and businesses will be run on personal computers. Not many people believed that was possible. Then again, not many people believed that social and environmental performance management for financial services could be defined, let alone embraced, let alone have impact. Ten years later, here we are.

So what is the next big hairy audacious goal for inclusive finance? In this interactive closing plenary, we will ask each of you to share your hopes for what inclusive finance can achieve in the next ten years, and we will also share our ambitious goals in three key areas: empowerment of all customers, regulation that does not stop at protection but aims for better outcomes, and inclusion of the very hardest to reach.

- Eric Duflos, Senior Financial Sector Specialist, CGAP (moderator)
